In the Marietta college this year there are students from California, Colorado, Maine, New Hampshire, Porto Rico and many other distant places.

In the death of Clerk of Courts Orlando Trotter Washington county loses a most competent, painstaking official and the community an upright, honest citizen. His family, of course suffers the greatest loss and the Leader extends condolence to the grief stricken ones.

As predicted by the Leader, Emma Goldman, the anarchist author and lecturer, has been arrested and the great hope is that she will be prevented from disseminating her doctrine or distributing her literature in the future. Czolgosz, who shot President McKinley, is a disciple of the Goldman woman.

It is understood that the report of the Board of Trade Committee, appointed to investigate the steel plant proposition of Messrs. Hastings, Wilkinson and Waller will be favorable to the enterprise, and a meeting of the Board will be called in the near future, probably Thursday evening, to further consider the matter.

Anarchy is getting the proper attention at the hands of the pulp and the press of the country. Now let the law-makers get down to business, and the viper will be crushed out. There is no room for such a doctrine in America, neither is there any room for its sympathizers. It is gratifying that in Marietta, so far as known, there is but one anarchist—and he received such a good choking the other day as the result of his utterances that he will probably be a little more careful as to what he says in the near future.

THE GRAND ARMY.

This week the Thirty-fifth Annual National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic is being held in the City of Cleveland, and hosts of the veterans of the great Civil strife are there in happy reunion.

The Grand Army of the Republic was organized April 6, 1866, in Decatur, the county seat of Macon county, Illinois. Its originator was Dr. Benjamin F. Stephenson, a physician, of Springfield, Illinois, who had served during the war as surgeon of the Fourteenth Illinois Infantry. He had spent many weeks in study and plans so that the Order might be one that would meet with the general approval of the surviving comrades of the war, and thus insure their hearty co-operation. He made a draft of a ritual and sent it to Captain John S. Phelps to Decatur, where two veterans, Messrs. Coltrin and Prior, had a printing office. These gentlemen, with their employees, who had been in the service, were first obligated to secrecy, and the ritual was then placed in type in their office. Captain Phelps returned to Springfield with proofs of the ritual, but the comrades in Decatur were so interested in the project, that, with the active assistance of Captain M. F. Kanan and Dr. J. W. Routh, a sufficient number of names were at once secured to an application for charter, and these gentlemen went to Springfield to request Dr. Stephenson to return with them and organize a Post at Decatur. The formation of a Post was under way at Springfield, but not being ready for muster, Dr. Stephenson, accompanied by several comrades, proceeded to Decatur, and there, on the date above named, April 6, 1866, Post No. 1 was formed, with Isaac C. Pugh as Commander and Captain Kanan as Adjutant. Soon afterwards Post No. 2 was mustered in Springfield.

The movement took root rapidly and in the course of a few months G. A. R. sentiment had taken possession of Union soldiers all over the country. A department convention was held at Springfield, Illinois, July 12, 1866, which adopted resolutions declaring the objects of the G. A. R. and General John A. Palmer was elected as the first Department Commander.

The first national Encampment was held at Indianapolis, November 20, 1866, and General Stephen A. Hurlbut, of Illinois, was elected Commander-in-Chief. From that time the Grand Army had most wonderful growth, and now its Posts are located in almost every county of the United States.

The Encampment at Cleveland is proving to be a magnificent success, and it is expected that eighty thousand old soldiers will march in the parade.

PRESS AND PUBLIC.

Senator Foraker expresses himself in the following characteristic forcible manner on the attempted assassination of the President, and the vicious attacks by caricature and otherwise on public men:

"No words can do justice to the subject. The act was especially startling and horrifying because of the blameless life the President has led and the extreme gentleness that has characterized him in all his relations with his fellowmen. Nothing gave him so much pleasure as to mingle with his fellow-citizens and talk with them socially about their personal and private concerns."

"All should learn a lesson. In the first place, President and vice president should be constantly and carefully guarded, even on occasions where apparently there is absolute security; and in the next place, there should be no countenance, especially by the newspapers, of men, societies or organizations that disregard and defy the laws of government and social order. All such should be unsparingly condemned and discounted. It is also most unfortunate that there should be so many publications, the purpose of which is to bring high public officials into disrepute, and to create for them, not simply lack of respect, but actual hostility and a wickedness of feeling on the part of the masses of unthinking men who read diatribes of abuse or ponder over ridiculous and mischievous cartoons. Such publications should stop and the authors of them should be punished as criminals."

VICTORY

Of Perry Celebrated at G. A. R. Encampment.

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 10.—The Naval veterans took first place in the festivities attendant upon the Grand Army of the Republic Encampment today. The eighty-seventh anniversary of Oliver Hazard Perry's historic triumph on Lake Erie was fittingly celebrated in grand parade of naval veterans and a naval display on the lake. Other features of interest in the day's program were the reception by the Cleveland Yacht Club, the Naval Display on Lake Erie, the fleet being opened to the inspection of the public, the dog watch of the Association of Naval Veterans, the camp fire of Union ex-prisoners of war, the reception for the National Officers of the Grand Army by the Woman's Relief Corps, the reception of the ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the west side camp fire at Turner Hall, and the lake front naval display by the United States Naval reserve boats, including illuminations and maneuvers by the fleet.

Real business relative to administrative affairs of the Grand Army commenced this afternoon.
